Local Students Bound For Sacramento

Pioneer Junior High students are "doers" with a yen for getting in there where the action is and "learning by doing."

A lot of the inspiration for the new approach in history learning came from the attitude of three history teachers. Teachers Ross Bloom, Bruce Breitler and Tom Dutchess agreed that with an election year and all the activity, they'd attempt to involve their students in government in action and make the process "come alive."

That they did! Around election time the three combined history classes studied the election process first hand. They walked precincts, mailed campaign literature and manned telephones in an effort to elect their chosen candidates.

Two days before the election a mock political rally took place at Pioneer. Assembly candidates Tim Dolan and John P. Quimby came to participate in this convention. Students then voted on the basis of what they heard at the rally and made their own decisions.

As explained recently in a formal presentation, the Upland School District Board of Trustees, learning about politics doesn't end with election day.

"As a result of this student involvement we have developed a plan to enrich and reinforce the experience encountered by the students in November," the three history teachers said to the Board.

This plan is an excursion to the state Capitol in Sacramento which will take place next Wednesday and Thursday. The School Board praised the idea and all involved seem enthusiastic about the trip and the learning experience it will be for some 20 students whose names were "picked from a 'Sacramento or Bust' box."

Bloom explained that students have been preparing for the Sacramento trip by reading pamphlets about state government, early history about the government, and studying what topics are now being discussed in the senate and assembly.

The 20 students whose names were chosen have earned most of their own money for the trip by cleaning yards, cutting grass and doing other household chores. (Estimated cost is $60-70 per student - teachers are financing their own trips.)

To the school board Dutchess said: "The major responsibility of the students going on the trip is to come back and share their information not only with their fellow students but also with parents."

Bloom said those participating students would give several programs when they return. One for the student body will consist of films taken, tape recordings as well as impressions of the students. Assemblyman Coombs' assistant is to be at Pioneer for the program to explain how a bill becomes a law. Other programs will be given to the PTA and School Board.

Local Citizens Urged: Attend 'Community Talk'

Interested members of the 24-member "project committee" which helped in the planning of the upcoming "Community Conversations" get-together are busy passing out flyers to community residents urging everyone in Upland to make an effort to attend the second community talk Wednesday afternoon.

"Community Conversations" will be a "Town-Hall" type of Congress involving all who care to come and discuss. It starts at 4 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. in the auditorium at Upland High School. The $2.50 admission charge for the general public will include a homemade Mexican dinner.

John Meyer, chairman of Community Conversations, said, "The event is one way of bringing people together to develop a spirit of cooperation to help clear up the misunderstandings that divide us."

Upland Chamber of Commerce initiated the community talks in 1969 (first called "Community Congress"). In preliminary meetings since January the formation committee has established five large subjects to be discussed. The committee is made up of a broad cross section of Upland. From the community conference will come a set of community GOALS. A follow-up committee will present the goals to government officials and others with the power to implement them.

Three months following the Community Conversations, the follow-up committee will issue a report, detailing exactly what was accomplished.

The five panels and the moderators of Community Conversations include:

--Environmental Crisis -- What Can We Do? Dr. Henry Childs Jr., vice president of instruction, Chaffey College.

--Attitudes Towards Crime -- Barry Brandt, attorney from Upland law firm of Maroney, Demchuk, Brandt and Schaefer.

--Challenges of a Growing City -- Randy Bond, manager, Southern California Edison.

--Home Owner's Dilemma -- John McCarthy, Upland City Councilman.

--Leisure Time, Looking Forward to a 30 Hour Work Week -- Fred Taunton, director of recreation, City of Upland.

SACRAMENTO BOUND -- These 20 enthusiastic Pioneer Junior High students will fly up to the State Capitol in Sacramento Wednesday - Thursday to see "government in action."

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE

BY Patricia Reid
Of The News Staff

It isn't every day in every city that one gets a chance to become a salesperson for a day.

Having been thoroughly delighted and impressed by the Fall Flea Market in Upland, my mother and I decided to "switch roles" this market . . . why spend money on "other people's junk" -- we got a garage full of our own!

Having never tried to sell anything before except Girl Scout cookies at a very early age and tickets to the "Great YMCA Circus" held annually in Redlands, this was real first for us. The fall selling was such a circus with so much human interest, I was looking forward to the experience just from a "people watcher's" point of view.

I sort of thought I'd arm myself with two or three types of cameras -- note pad, radio, morning newspaper, etc. -- and eat homemade goodies, visit with people and have a good time -- while the "junk" sat there unnoticed by bargain hunters.

Well, to get to the point, evidently our old "discards" didn't seem so unattractive or uninteresting to others and my mother and I barely managed to maneuver our cars into our marked spaces in early morning hours, when bargain experts descended on the cars . . . peering with experienced glances into our boxes of junk . . . seeking out the REAL treasures we might not fully appreciate. (obviously we were "first timers" by our slowness and general awkwardness in getting the shop set up!)

We realized later, we had "given away" some high interest junk in wee morn hours -- not aware of the rules of the buying-selling game -- couldn't hold out for a higher price! hum

Well, never did settle down into deck chairs for relaxing fun day at the park -- was hustling price tags, tables-displays-bags, change every minute! Ours was a popular booth.

SELLERS' MARKET! -- The sun shone brightly -- and individuals and groups were out in full force last Sunday at the third annual "Upland Flea Market" held at the softball diamond of Upland Memorial Park. One could find everything from boutique art items to three-wheel vehicles -- musical instruments, plants of all shapes, sizes and types, baked goods and plain old rummage!!

CITY COUNCIL

Sides Compromise

After a suspenseful and dramatic back and forth dialog between Upland City Councilman Max Hawkins and Upland resident Dell McDaniels, owner of C and M Homes of Ontario, both parties compromised Monday night: Hawkins softened the tone of his criticism of the builder and McDaniels cooperated and offered to build a wall not originally planned in a tract.

Builder McDaniels took offense with Hawkins' statement in the minutes of the March 5 Council meeting: "That the Council go on record as being unhappy with the actions of the subdivider, that he was uncooperative and they do not like the way he builds in the city."

In a presentation before the Council, McDaniels indicated that his company has built in Southern California for 33 years and built successfully in Upland for 20 years. He said he'd made the decision not to build the brick wall because of a "do-it-or-else" attitude of city staff.

Because of complaints from Alice Rogers, of 1448 N. Francis Ave., the city requested the wall to prevent erosion into neighboring property two months ago.

At the last Council meeting it was noted that in the past subdividers -- from the standpoint of good public relations -- have agreed to similar requests for the relatively inexpensive walls.

After Hawkins admitted his comments about "not liking the way he builds in the city" were a poor choice of words, McDaniels quickly agreed to build the much-discussed wall and left the meeting.

City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder was apparently the only member of the Council table who had reasons and a desire to change the council meetings to the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 7:30 p.m. Hawkins said the proposal had "been kicked around for months" and he put it on the agenda to help the city staff. Other council members gave reasons in opposition to changing the day and time and the ordinance was defeated.

Councilman George Gibson reiterated his comments of the last meeting that Monday is generally a less-busy night of the week and he preferred having the week-end to study materials to be discussed. Councilman Hal Bailin agreed that Tuesday night would be most inconvenient and that "there was no reason to change at all."

McCarthy pointed out that news media coverage would be limited due to the number of other city councils that meet Tuesday night.

It was decided that a request by Inland Enterprises for a Conditional Use Permit to establish a rest home on Mesa Court be continued so the city attorney could further look into the type of patients the facility would take in. An area resident expressed concern that mental patients from Patton Hospital would be moved in the facility without proper security or facilities.

Council voted to refer an appeal by the Hulsh brothers back to the Architectural Commission. The appeal concerned landscaping along the San Bernardino Freeway in front of the Pomona Valley Miniature Golf Center. Steve Christensen reviewed the order of events and different types of landscaping considered for property frontage. Repeatedly he pointed out that freeway visibility was the most important aspect of the facility and the owners were concerned that large trees would hide the facility from freeway view. The original plan of planting acacia trees was changed to Canary Island pine trees and ice plant.

Because of considerable concern among council members about scarcity of off-street parking spaces, a request to expand by Bill Phillips of Arrow Liquors Inc. was referred back to the Planning Commission for further consideration. Most of the councilmen agreed they liked the development but objected to the parking. Hawkins pointed out that the plans provided for 12 spaces instead of the suggested 25 and would set a bad precedent in the city.

Council postponed a move to condemn private property on 24th St. for a sewer easement until the next meeting in hopes some agreement could be made which would solve the sewer problem. Property owner Jack Christanson explained that he can't develop property on 24th St. because there's no way to drain the water and provide sewers -- he's landlocked.

Raymond Berry, owner of the property which may be condemned, violently opposed the action and said he didn't feel it was right to condemn land to benefit one piece of private property over another.

Hawkins reported that 66 new street lights will be installed in the southeast quadrant of Upland because of numerous requests.

'Reach Out' Week Here March 19-25

With the advent of Spring comes Proclamations . . . or so it seems in Upland. Upland Mayor Abner B. Haldeman proclaimed March 19-25 as "Reach Out" Week in honor of the third anniversary of the founding of "Reach Out West End." This organization has helped some 12,000 people yearly at its crisis intervention center.

The week of April 30 - May 6 is proclaimed by Mayor Haldeman as "Leukemia Week." In the proclamation the Mayor urged all citizens to support the 1973 Leukemia Society Campaign to raise funds for leukemia research and patient aid programs.

'Recreational Park' Hearing Cancelled

By PATRICIA REID

A public hearing scheduled to take place today before the county planning commission regarding a proposal to develop a "recreational park" behind San Antonio Dam was cancelled because the Environmental Impact Report on the project was not completed.

William Weber of Upland, who recently joined Jim Spears, the original applicant for the recreational park, said Monday night at the Upland Council meeting that a professional firm was still in the process of compiling an extensive environmental impact report on the proposed park. City Council members agreed to table any action concerning the proposal until this report is completed and they've had a chance to review plans and report.

This time around, Upland is taking a more aggressive stand of opposition to the amusement park concept with all the disadvantages of noise, water and people pollution. Six months ago the city objected to the plan solely on the grounds that horses could pollute the city's water wells. For the past two council meetings there's been discussion of having the city take over the federal government-owned flood control land and maintain it as a natural wilderness park with hiking and bike trails, restrooms, etc. At the last meeting Councilman Max Hawkins pointed out that the problem of water pollution had not changed and that the city had been told by the Corps of Engineers that they could take over the area as a wildlife park and end further requests for other use.

It was discovered that a previous Corps requirement that the 125-acre area had to be fenced was eliminated. It was decided that if the private proposal for park development doesn't meet the council's approval, they will suggest a five year development plan to the Corps for approval.

Weber presented a blueprint sketch of the revised proposal for the area and claimed "we want it maintained as a wildlife area also -- it's the same thing you want."

He listed the items removed from the original plans: horse stables, motorcycle area, airplane models area and children's recreation area.

The horse stables were the most controversial aspect of the plan. Also the possibility of noise and other problems caused by a proposed motorcycle trail irritated local San Antonio Heights residents this summer.

"We eliminated these things to get more of what people wanted. They (the citizens who opposed the project) were dead set against motorcycles and horses. They didn't want these facilities, so we just eliminated them," said Spears.

Weber added, "It's not our intention to irritate people, because the citizens of the area

Upland High Students Take 'Pen In Hand'

Because the Upland High School student newspaper "The Plaid Press," was named the best news magazine in the nation this year by the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA), the Upland News-Cucamonga Times decided to let student journalists write this week's feature story.

Members of the Plaid staff are planning to travel to Portland, Oregon next month to receive the coveted NSPA top award. The following are excerpts written by Plaid staffers who each have a different "beat" on campus:

CLIFF DAY - BILL MUIR

Upland High's award winning newsmagazine, The Plaid, has gone over its budget and will print only one more issue. The reason given by Plaid adviser Mr. Steve Eichelberger was, "We could have printed a so-so publication all year, but we decided to print a top-notch newsmagazine for as long as we could."

The Upland High Student Council has refused to give the Plaid additional funds needed to continue printing. The Plaid's last issue of 1973 will be in April. There will be no issue in March.

Many Upland High students who bought Associated Student Body cards are reported to be in disagreement with the Student Council's decision. Associated Student Body cards provide funds for student activities such as The Plaid. The students will receive a total of six issues instead of the full nine that they had expected.

BARBARA STROWIG

Upland High's yearbook, the Hielan, might have a change. The art department could be responsible for it next year.

The English department, presently the yearbook's home, feels that art is more important to a yearbook than English, according to the present Hielan adviser, Mr. Alan Rhodes. No art teacher is presently available to be next year's adviser.

The final decision will be made at Upland High some time this year.

CLAIR LUCAS

The Upland High Student Service Center offers students an "extra choice" in matters of personal counseling, college and career information, and recreation. Although counseling, college, and career information can all be found in the present guide-ance center, many students feel uncomfortable there. Many find it easier to solve their problems in the more relaxed atmosphere of the student center. During lunch hours, students filter into the center's recreation room to eat lunch, play records, and "rap." A few come to see SSC Coordinator Pedro Nava, who prefers to be known as an assistant rather than a teacher or a counselor.

"The ideal situation would be for the students to run the center," says Nava. "I'm here to help students when they need it, not to set down hard and fast rules."

MARK KLINGENSMITH

Two lunch tables are the newest additions to Upland High School's grounds. The cement lunch tables appeared on school grounds in the beginning of February. Each will seat six persons comfortably. The money for the tables was a gift from last year's senior class.

The tables are located on the senior lawn which is in front of the UHS library.

DAWN EVANS

Art teacher Mr. Richard Andrews' silk-screening classes are experimenting with the artistic uses of photography in silk-screening.

Andrew and his classes have been doing what they call photo-silk screening. A photograph is transferred to a silk-screen. The screen, which has the image on it, transfers the photographic picture to paper, or some other surface, with the use of different colored oil base paints. Along with the increased possibilities offered by photography, a variety of many different materials and colors can be put to use.

DAN MC CROBIE

UHS Principal David Campbell will work at Upland High with the West End Drug Abuse Council to help students with drug problems.

Jim Lokehamer, a 23 year old from the University of Redlands, will lead the program. The purpose of this program is to give students an opportunity to explore topics under the directions of a trained drug abuse counselor.

Sixteen sessions open to all students will be held on Wednesdays and Thursdays at 2 p.m. in the Upland High's room 110.

RACHEL BRADFORD

The students in the Upland High School Campus Life club are discussing a trip to the desert in the near future.

Campus Life is a community organization in which all Upland High students may participate. To raise money for such trips, the students sponsor car washes, sales, and many other activities.

Any student may join and go along on the trips. Campus Life sponsors the successful Haunted House each October. Their meetings are held every other Monday.

DAVE DURAN

Student drivers in Mr. Floyd

Johnson's driver training class couldn't drive for several days last week.

One of Johnson's students had hit another car and damaged the driver training car.

Johnson simply said, "It was his fault and the kid will have to pay for the repair charges."

The car was available again this Monday.

RANDY COOK

Upland High School woodshop students are making many items of interest. Among these things are water skis, toboggans, stereo speakers, walnut chess boards and a variety of desk accessories.

The students are in control of the quality of their projects and are charged only for the cost of lumber, hardware and finishing materials.

Woodshop instructors are Mr. Sam Rice, Mr. Bill Turner and Mr. Andy Sandquist.

RENEE COOPER

"Upland High School's Reading Program has begun successfully with its three individual reading labs in session for the first year," says Reading Director Mr. Alan Rhodes.

Each lab has been developed to help each individual student with his specific reading problem.

The program includes one class for those who are slow learners, or suffer from bad memories. Another is for slight problems such as inaccuracy. The third and most popular elective of the three is speed reading, which usually doubles the student's reading speed. The pupils in this class usually have average to good reading ability.

As Rhodes says, "No matter what level a student is reading on, there's a class for him."

JULIE MAXHIMER

One of the many P. E. activities open to the girls at Upland High is a "unit" in golf. Registration has been high for the classes.

According to golf instructor Mrs. Donna Hill, most of the girls were taking golf because, "It's a new experience. The girls never had any golf before. It's a challenge to them."

The girls' P.E. classes had an 18-hole golf course laid out on the grounds so the girls could practice.

At the end of the unit there was a tournament for beginners and one for intermediates.

LILLIAN SCHUBERT

She Enjoys An 'Unusual Job'

"I'll admit I've got an unusual job," said Ms. Lillian Schubert of Upland. Ms. Schubert has been secretary to the superintendent of the California Institution for women for the past 12 years. "It's a good job, though," she went on. "And it's not scary or unpleasant, as some people might think."

Ms. Schubert is also program chairman for the local chapter of the National Secretaries Assoc. "Ours is the Upland-Pomona-Claremont chapter," she explained. "I've been a member since 1965, but wish I'd been around in 1955 when the club started. I guess things were pretty exciting then."

Ms. Schubert told a little about the Association. "One chapter gets started through another. For instance, our group was sponsored by the Redlands chapter. Just recently we chartered the industry chapter. "One of our prime concerns is the scholarship fund. Each year we try to give some money to a young woman who's going on with her secretarial studies."

"Probably our prime activity is our annual 'Program of the Year.' This event usually takes place in February. This year, we're giving a fine arts program entitled 'Yours for the Beholding.' We'll hold our meeting in West Covina on Feb. 28. Ms. Florence Reeves will show slides of masterpieces at the National Galleries in Washington, D.C. It ought to be a good program."

are our potential customers."

The park is proposed for an area on the north side of 26th St., San Antonio Heights, between Camp Baldy Rd. on the west and Mountain Ave. on the east. Fishing lakes, stocked with fish bred on the park site, an archery range, snack bar and picnic area are planned for the Mountain Ave. sector of the park. On the other side of the depressed flood plain, on the Los Angeles County side of the park, a camping area will be built.

Know Your Constituents, Says Pettis

How does a Congressman know what his constituents are thinking?

Ask them, says Rep. Jerry L. Pettis (R) of Loma Linda. The Congressman this week sent his 1973 legislative questionnaires to 86 cities and communities -- including Upland and Cucamonga -- throughout the 33rd Congressional District.

Prepared with a simple format so that residents have only to complete, detach and mail it, the questionnaire represents a cross section of issues expected to be considered shortly in the 93rd Congress. Some of the issues already are in the formative stages of legislation and all of them are in the news.

Said Pettis, "Having the ideas of people at home is important to me when I am voting in Washington, 3,000 miles away."

Results of the survey will be tabulated and published so that residents will be able to compare their opinions with those of the rest of the district and with the Congressman's voting record.

Pettis asked questions about the Southland's air pollution, the national budget, amnesty, imports, the mail service, national health insurance and for a priority listing of the most important problems facing America today.

The sooner the questionnaires are returned, the sooner the results can be tabulated and made public, said Pettis. However, the Congressman noted that the questionnaires filter back to his office throughout the year. In fact, as the 1973 questionnaires were being folded for mailing, a one-year-old card made its way to Washington from Barstow.

"I appreciate the reply, regardless," said Pettis.

Somebody you know has just switched to Mayfair.

Here's why:

To know for yourself just how good Mayfair meat is, you'll either have to try it, or take our word for it.

But you don't have to take our word about how low Mayfair meat prices are.

Using the shopping list the U.S. Department of Labor uses to measure food prices, we compared our meat prices with our major competitors.

As of March 5, 1973:

| | % OF ITEMS | $ TOTAL UNIT COST | $ SAVINGS AT MAYFAIR |
|---------------|------------|--------------------|-----------------------|
| Mayfair | 16 | 19.04 | 1.81 |
| Von's | 16 | 20.85 | |
| Mayfair | 23 | 25.91 | .84 |
| Safeway | 23 | 26.75 | |
| Mayfair | 22 | 25.46 | .91 |
| Market Basket | 22 | 26.37 | |
| Mayfair | 17 | 20.29 | .82 |
| Alpha Beta | 17 | 21.11 | |
| Mayfair | 18 | 18.09 | .45 |
| Stater Bros. | 18 | 18.54 | |

And that's proof that on discount prices, Mayfair is more fair.

1. Deliciously good meat at the lowest prices
2. Proof from Uncle Sam that our meat prices are the lowest

Senator Coombs Assistant To Be Guest Speaker

Robert E. Botts, administrative assistant to State Senator William E. Coombs, will speak to the Chaffey Community Republican Women, Federated, at a noon luncheon Wednesday, March 28.

The event will be held at L'Alouette Restaurant, 4760 Holt Blvd., Montclair. His topic will be "Private Participation in a Public Process."

Botts, a lifelong resident of the San Bernardino area, has been active in business and political affairs, and in many community activities. He was the recipient of the San Bernardino Jaycees' distinguished service award as "Outstanding Man of the Year -- 1972."

Botts is a graduate of California State College and a member of the County Republican Central Committee, the Republican State Central Committee and is on the Board of Directors of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce and Goodwill Industries.

SPRINGING WITH DAD -- Darrell Osborn is pictured with his two daughters, Carrie and Renee as they prepare for the annual Camp Fire Girls father-daughter banquet March 29 and 30. Members may obtain tickets through their group leaders for the event.

Redlands Bowl Young Artist Audition Set

Requests for applications to compete in the Redlands Bowl Young Artists' Auditions are still coming in daily. If you would like a chance to appear in the Redlands Bowl in a pre-season concert, now is the time to audition. Deadline for applications is March 26.

Besides the opportunity to perform for the public, junior winners win a cash prize of $50, and senior winners, $100. Prize money is contributed by the Associates of the Redlands Bowl.

Requests for applications should be sent to: Mrs. Raymond Beeler, Chairman, Young Artists Auditions, Redlands Community Music Association, P.O. Box 466, Redlands, CA - 92373.

Home Fair Planned

Hours of sewing and cooking and studying of the domestic arts will pay off Saturday, Mar. 24, for many Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts who participate in the "Ace Home Fair" at Alta Loma School, 7085 Amethyst, Alta Loma.

The Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts of the Ace Neighborhood, Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council will submit projects in categories of candy making, cake, bread and cookie baking, macramé, weaving, table setting, clay drawing, crochet, knitting and sewing.

The Home Fair is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Refreshments will be sold and the proceeds will be donated to the fund to purchase a Jeep for use on the 360 acre Mt. Palomar Campsite.

Vision, Hearing Screening For Preschoolers

Foothill Council PTA will conduct a Vision and Hearing screening, March 28 and 29 from 9 a.m. to noon at the First Presbyterian Church of Upland, 869 N. Euclid Ave.

All pre-schoolers are invited. Mothers are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to have their children's vision and hearing tested as some defects cannot be successfully treated after age six, according to Estrella Thomas, publicity chairman.

There is no fee for the service. A screening in Cucamonga will be announced in April.

New Officers Installed For Foothill PTA

Mrs. Richard Musser was installed as president of the Foothill Council Parents, Teachers Association recently.

Other officers installed for the new term are Esther Billings, historian; Louise Vanderwilt, treasurer; Betti Sanders, vice president; Mrs. Howard Billington, parliamentarian; Mrs. John Pitman, secretary and Bob A. Schmidt, auditor.

Mr. And Mrs. David Adams

"I THANK GOD FOR AMERICAN LEADERSHIP"

GEOFFREY T. GODSELL, British born overseas editor of the Christian Science Monitor

"Beyond the problems of its inner cities, the United States retains a strong and certain backbone."

Sometimes dismayed by the suffering in the world, Godsell said, "I THEN REMIND MYSELF WHAT THIS (AMERICAN) SOCIETY HAS ACHIEVED, AND IT'S STILL NOT 200 YEARS OLD."

"Americans do not always see that their republic is based on universal principles. Though China and Russia are far older societies, the United States has given people healthier and more successful lives."

"No OTHER country of comparable size in the world — where the FREE SYSTEM has been made to operate so successfully as the United States."

"This success in a short time period gives me hope and confidence for the United States meeting the challenges of the complex technical world of today", Godsell concluded.

Solving Diet Portion Problems

PORTION PROBLEMS
 "Can't lose weight even though you're following a sensible weight reduction plan? The quantity of food and underestimating or overestimating calories may be the problem!" says University of California Home Advisor Sharon Higgins.

Pour a glass of milk, a bowl of cereal or weigh a typical hamburger patty that is an "average" serving. Is the cup of milk 8 ounces, 12 ounces or 16 ounces? A bowl of cereal can be from 1/2 cup to 2 cups in size. The Los Angeles County Home Advisor found a 250 calorie difference between the 5 ounce and 8 ounce hamburger patty.

Minor errors in estimating portion size quickly add up to enough calories to defeat the diet. A deficiency of 500 calories per day is the equivalent of one pound of body fat per week.

"A few excesses here and there sabotage a dieter's efforts," Mrs. Higgins also notes that foods measured in ounces or inches are difficult to accurately measure.

Avocado Stars At Party Luncheon

Luncheon becomes an affair to remember with this party perfect Avocado Salad Pie In-the-Round. Shimmering splendidly in the buttery-crinkle crust is a creamy avocado filling studded with crunchy celery and savory smoked turkey. For extra mouth watering goodness, a border of fresh snipped parsley shares "Top" honors with additional slices of velvety green avocado, fresh tomato and crispy bits of bacon.

This delectable pie can be made the day before the big event, leaving you free to attend to the remaining luncheon preparations with ease. Just prepare and refrigerate the pie. When the filling has set, wrap it loosely in plastic wrap. Decorate with the garnishes just before serving time so they will look fresh and pretty.

A tip in planning the rest of the menu is to think light. You need no more than your prettiest basket of soft, feathery rolls, and some leafy greens of fresh butter lettuce to garnish each plate. Nice to nestle in the lettuce are decorative radish roses or perhaps some tangy spiced peaches.

When selecting the avocados for Avocado Salad Pie In-the-Round, choose by the way they feel. You'll want the soft ones - they yield to gentle pressure when gently cradled between the palms. If you can't use them right away for the pie just refrigerate them until you're ready. They will keep several days.

And because you'll need two avocados for the pie, why not save the avocado seeds and let the children use them to grow avocado houseplants. They make lovely inexpensive "gifts of love" that the children will enjoy giving later on.

Growing an avocado houseplant is easy. Just suspend each seed halfway in a glass of water, pointed end up. Use tooth picks stuck in the middle of the seed to do this. When the roots form and a sprout grows about 6 inches tall, plant it in a pot and care for it like an ordinary houseplant. What a rewarding, fun way to remember your luncheon starring Avocado Salad Pie In-the-Round!

AVOCADO SALAD PIE IN-THE-ROUND

- 1-1/2 cups cracker crumbs (about 36 round, rich crackers)
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 (3-oz.) package lemon flav-

- ored gelatin dessert
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 3/4 teaspoon salt

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1-1/2 medium California avocados, peeled and diced *
- 2/3 cup heavy cream, whipped

Milk Sales, Production Make Big Jumps In 1972

Californians are becoming big milk drinkers again, according to preliminary milk production and sales figures for 1972. Milk production in California during 1972 showed the largest gain in 20 years and sales made the biggest advance in almost a decade.

Total sales of Class I fluid milk products in the state increased to 656,324,000 gallons from 628,684,000 gallons in 1971, a 4.1 percent increase when adjusted to account for an extra Leap Year day. In 1963 a similar 4.1 percent rise was recorded.

Every month of 1972 showed a gain in milk sales, culminated in December with a 1.2 percent increase in Class I sales. Total sales for December increased to 55,783,000 from 55,116,000 in 1971.

| MAJOR CATEGORIES | 1971 | 1972 | PERCENTAGE CHANGE |
|-------------------------|---------|---------|-------------------|
| (000) | (000) | | |
| Fluid whole milk | 474,227 | 482,292 | plus 1.4 |
| Low-fat milk | 93,805 | 110,086 | plus 17.1 |
| Fluid skim milk | 36,220 | 39,734 | plus 9.4 |
| Flavored dairy drink | 9,864 | 10,243 | plus 3.6 |
| Half-and-half | 8,428 | 8,089 | minus 4.3 |
| Sour fluid cream | 3,597 | 3,554 | minus 1.4 |
| Concentrated fluid milk | 1,625 | 1,432 | minus 12.1 |

Why the good neighbor went down to the docks.

Strange, but true: many a dock worker doesn't know how to swim. One step in the wrong direction—and a man could be in deep trouble.

Which is why, in Los Angeles, the American Red Cross—America's Good Neighbor—gives a water survival safety course to non-swimming waterfront workers.

If you live far from the waterfront, this may not seem important to you.

But it represents just what Red Cross is all about.

Because The American Red Cross is a home town affair. That's why you find us doing different things in different home towns. We're what you need us to be. Whoever you are. Wherever you are.

And isn't that what a Good Neighbor is all about?

Be a good neighbor. Help The Good Neighbor.

The Homemakers.

'Night Music, 'Pippin' Dominate Tony Awards

"A Little Night Music" and "Pippin" have captured the most nominations for Broadway's annual Antoinette Perry Tony Awards. Both were entered in the category for best musical. Twenty shows received Tony nominations in one or more of 18 competitive classes. "A Little Night Music" had 12 nominations and "Pippin" received 11. The winners will be announced March 25.

Nominated for the best drama prize were two American plays, "That Championship Season" and "The Sunshine Boys," and two British imports, "Butley" and "The Changing Room."

The nominations for best dramatic actor were won by Jack Albertson of "The Sunshine Boys," Alan Bates of "Butley," Wilfrid Hyde-White of "The Jockey Club Stakes," and Paul Sorvino of "That Championship Season."

For best dramatic actress, Jane Alexander of "Rms Riv Vu," Colleen Dewhurst of "Mourning Becomes Electra," Julie Harris of "The Last of Mrs. Lincoln," and Kathleen Widdoes of "Much Ado About Nothing" were nominated.

Director A. J. Antoon received nominations for his work in "That Championship Season" and "Much Ado About Nothing." Gower Champion and Bob Fosse were nominated in separate classes as best musical director and choreographer, respectively, for "Sugar" and "Pippin."

On Film--Talking With A 'Jungle Boy'

Disney's 'Greatest Athlete'

Acts From 'Feelings,' Not 'Methods'

Imagine him swinging lithely through jungle trees -- then with a resounding kerplow landing in a comfortable chair at a luncheon table in a posh hotel.

It didn't happen quite that way, of course. But Jan-Michael Vincent's latest claim to fame did involve some snazzy jungle feats. He stars in the new Walt Disney success, "The World's Greatest Athlete."

That accomplishment brought him, through time-honored Hollywood tradition, to that luncheon table surrounded by critics and interviewers. And Vincent did seem a bit surprised by it all. Not that he really embodies the "jungle-boy-cum-athlete" role he plays in the picture. But he doesn't see himself as the usual sort of actor, either.

He grew up on a farm, became a high school athlete, briefly studied art. Then came a six-month idyll in a Mexican village, and a stint in the Army. When suddenly, a friendly agent suggested he try acting.

This doesn't sound, in its easy casualness, like the usual struggle-for-success story. It just happened, Vincent indicates, it pleases him. He insists he has never become an "artist."

"I find the most natural way, and as I see it the most realistic way, of playing a role. It involves more feeling, and being in touch with myself, than methods and intellectualization... I talk about instinctual acting, because I'm not a trained actor."

After a variety of television and movie roles, including a couple of bad-guy parts, Vincent joined the Disney picture "to get a break from the seriousness of myself and what I was doing... It was a real good time -- we'd just go out and play... There was lots of improvisation within the thought-out gags that the Disney people like to use..."

The young actor, still in his 20s, takes his bad-guy movies with a grain of salt. He appeared with Charles Bronson in "The Mechanic," a grim and violent drama. But he calls it "A Keystone Kops film -- everything blew up... Playing evil people can grate on your personality after awhile," however. "Which doesn't mean that everything should be smooth all the time. I like the idea that some things just aren't comfortable."

As for the actor's life, "I'm glad of the people I've met, the places I've been. It's a good job, and the consequences of it can't be thought of too much... I've bought some land recently, and I might end up as a farmer. I don't want to be a businessman. I never think about my money. I have a manager to worry about that..."

"Lately, I've gotten more and more into growing things. Farming is a good way to get out of the neurotic life of Hollywood, being alone sometimes and just growing things. I like to be alone. But I like going out and meeting people, too. If a person was a complete introvert, he wouldn't be well-balanced."

So Vincent maintains a sense of detachment as his career grows. He feels "it's not a great joy to watch myself on screen, you see all the little things and get very self-critical... I don't read reviews, because I would get neurotic if I worried about what people I've never met thought about what I did -- and I intend to get out of this mentally healthy... I knew the New York critics, in all their sleekness, wouldn't like 'Athlete.' But they're not the only people in the world."

He calls his approach to movies "realistic." -- The films I'm in are made by people to make money. And theater bores me. It's too structured and planned. He likes most "the visuals of film... I'd like to make a movie, not necessarily a dramatic one... I have a 16 mm. camera now, and I'm shooting around as a hobby."

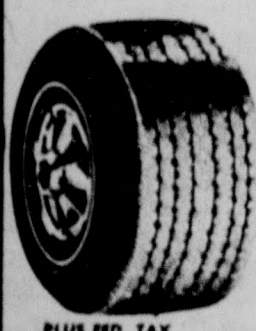

In short, Vincent betrays little interest in becoming the complete actor. But as a vigorous young performer, with a fresh and detached attitude, he makes a welcome addition to the Hollywood constellation.

Runner Prepares For Marathon

Martin Balding has been running for six years. "The idea of running in a marathon didn't occur to me at first," he said. Approximately five years ago Balding entered the Palo Verde Marathon. "I about died," he said, "and didn't finish even under four hours," a comparatively slow time for marathons.

To qualify for the Boston Marathon, Balding recently competed in a marathon at San Diego, finishing in 3 hours, 16 minutes.

Track Team At Montclair High Loses To Chino

Montclair took a loss in San Antonio League track Monday night when Chino squeaked out a 61-1/2 to 56-1/2 victory.

The meet was especially disappointing due to a tie in the mile relay, the last running event on the program, that gave Chino the needed amount of points.

It may be difficult to imagine a tie in the mile relay, but Chino's Don Cossey and Filbert Gonzales of Montclair matched strides to the finish. Cossey had earlier won the 100 yard dash and finished second to Gonzales in the 440.

Coach Richard Hester's Cowboys were given an added boost by the services of Gene Bernard. He accounted for wins in the 120 high hurdles and high jump, plus a second to Dan Winkler of Montclair in the 180 low hurdles.

More than two years passed before Balding "tried it again." During that time, he maintained his usual two mile runs, three times a week. "I finally tried it again, don't ask me why, and did fairly well, running the Culver City Marathon in three hours, 18 minutes."

Balding's "reputation" became well known at Alta Loma High School, where he is an industrial arts instructor, and led to his planned participation in the Boston Marathon.

Alta Loma's student body is paying for all Balding's expenses, plane fare and hotel accommodations. Besides representing the area, he will be running to raise money for student activities.

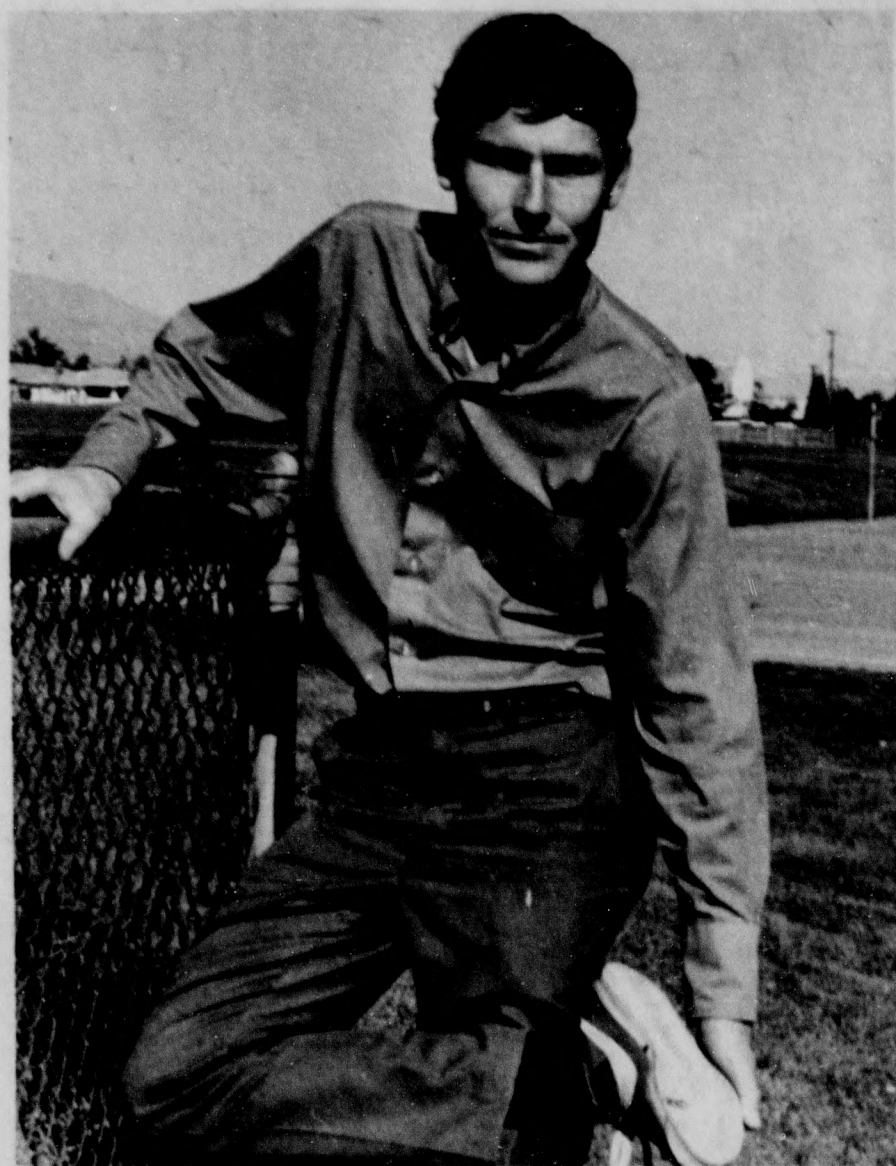

Local residents are encouraged to pledge money for each mile Balding completes, $5 if he finishes the race or $15 if he completes the marathon in what would be his record time, two hours and 55 minutes.

"My personal goal is to complete the race in three hours or less," he said. Balding stated he is slowly building up to the 26 mile length. Last week he was finishing the 12 to 15 mile mark.

"It's a great opportunity for me, to do a little traveling and see the Boston area, as well as compete in the race and raise money for the school. There really shouldn't be any suspense in the runners on April 16 in Boston," he said. "By then personal capabilities will be known, it's not a luck race, just lots of hard work and guts."

Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

IT MAY BE A LONG RACE -- Martin Balding is being sponsored by the Alta Loma High School Student Body to run in the 26 mile, 385 yard Boston Marathon. Feet may be sore and the soles of his shoes worn thin, but Balding plans to complete the race.

Sports News From Upland Is Released

A news writing class from Upland High School, under the supervision of instructor Steve Eichelberger, recently released a number of articles on school athletic activities at Upland. Two of the articles are presented here, with minor changes.

--Lori Templeman
Rain is depriving Upland High's varsity baseball team of much needed practice sessions. Coach Herb Christian stated there are few returning lettermen, a more inexperienced team than last year.

A great deal of improvement is needed, said Christian, although the pitching and overall defense have come a long way since the beginning of the season. He indicated team hitting, particularly when men were on base, as an area where more work is needed.

Christian named Bob Self, Mike Scharbrough, Stu DuVall, Dale Arneson and Steve Smith as promising members of the varsity baseball team.

--Laura McGrea
Varsity tennis players at Upland High have high hopes of sewing up an undefeated season in league play this year.

With nine of the 10 varsity players returning from last year, Coach Paul Trautwein feels his team will do well, expecting tough competition from Claremont.

Roses Suit Almost Any Landscape

On Walls, On Ground, As Bushes

Roses have many uses in landscaping the home grounds. Early spring is a good time to see where you can work some into your design, enabling you to have more.

No wonder they are everybody's favorite. Besides their versatility, beauty, and adaptability to soils and climates all over the world, they have the longest blooming season of any garden plant. The actual length of blooming varies, of course, by areas. But even in colder regions they will bloom for about four months.

Before considering them in landscaping, it might be well to go over the different kinds, each suited to different uses.

The older hybrid perpetuals, offered by firms specializing in "old roses," are cherished for sentiment and mostly planted in rose gardens and special spots--the moss roses, damask, and "June" roses of great-grandmother's garden. The so-called shrub rose, Rosa rugosa, is a big bush, blooming once or twice a year and bearing handsome haws. Known for hundreds of years it is fine for informal hedges and boundaries.

Wichuriana is a prostrate plant, widely used on banks where as a control for erosion.

The public rose gardens and most of the roses planted as accents are they hybrid teas, blooming all season. A fairly new class of rose is the grandiflora, a large plant with blooms in clusters. It is ideal as a specimen or accent plant.

Especially useful in landscaping are the floribundas. They are hardy, available in a wide range of colors, and bear clusters of blooms all season. Floribundas are just the right height for narrow beds along a walk or fence, and are delightful in mass plantings.

The smallest rose plants are the minatures. They have had a revival in landscaping where low roses are desired, as beside a terrace or in the front of the flower border. Climbing roses, many of them now climbing forms of famous hybrid teas, and tree roses, also trained forms of other roses, round out this amazing variety of plants for landscape uses.

In your home ground design, an informal background shrubbery or wide boundary can be gained by planting the thorny Rosa rugosa--so seldom included these days, yet so handsome and fragrant. You can have privacy and protection, too, by means of a high hedge of Red Glory or Red Robin--both gorgeous bloomers.

Climbers like Blaze will cover a fence that has no beauty of its own. And climbers developed from favorite hybrid teas can be trained to decorate a boundary wall or camouflage an uninteresting garage. They can give height to the landscape design by growing on a pergola, an arbor, or on accent pillars. And if you have an outcropping of ledge or a big boulder you can make it even more beautiful with climbers.

The floribundas are perfect as hedges in all sorts of places. Mass them against a house foundation, along a path, edging a garden walk, or along a fence.

If you have a fairly large place, consider a split-rail fence to mark off an outdoor living area by the house, planted with hybrid teas, floribundas, climbers and perhaps a tree rose or two for accent.

As a welcome to arriving guests you might plant a doorway display of hybrid teas and floribundas among low evergreens. To soften the sharp corners of the house or an exposed walk, consider including floribundas among other planting.

If quite a bit of your backyard space is taken up by a vegetable garden, you can even work roses into your landscape design there. A plan offered by the All-America Rose Selections people provides for two rear corners screened by grandifloras, a row of floribundas along the rear, and a four-foot grass walk surrounding the vegetable area with an edging of gladioli and/or cutting annuals along its two sides.

Tubed or potted hybrid teas or tree roses make delightful accents on the patio or terrace. A center bed of minatures can be charming also, where the small perfect blooms can be seen at close range. And for special exhibition of favorites or All-American winners, you might have just the right place for a round rose bed in a prominent spot.

Roses grouped in the perennial border or in a formal rose garden with paths and a center bird bath or sundial are always a joy. But in addition to these more usual ways of locating them, rose in the overall landscape design enable you to have many more of these universal garden favorites.

Lesser-Known Shrubs

Some Good Companions

For The Old Favorites

A garden or landscape can be made more colorful and interesting by the addition of some of the lesser-known and distinctive shrubs and small trees.

Witch hazel (var. Hamamelis), for example, is a small native tree which does well in full sun or moderate shade, is tolerant of moist or damp locations, and flowers at unusual times. There are two commonly grown varieties: the vernal, or spring, which flowers in January-February - March, and virginiana, which flowers in late fall and early winter.

Both produce a profusion of yellow-to-orange flowers clustered along the branches. The vernal variety, which makes an excellent specimen plant when grown in full sun, has beautiful orange fall color.

The shadblow, or Juneberry (var. Amelanchier), produces billowy masses of white flowers in early spring, before the leaves appear. This small tree is usually multitrunked with gray bark that offers an interesting winter contrast and grows to a height of about 15 feet. They are most conspicuous in the fall because of their brilliant red, orange, and yellow color.

Like the witch hazel, they will tolerate moist soil and some shade, but both flowers and fall color are best when the plant has good sun.

The star magnolia (M. stellata) is in many respects the showiest of the ornamental magnolias and must always be at the top of the specimen-plant list. It is covered with a profuse mass of white starlike flowers that are very fragrant and bloom in early spring before the leaves appear. It is a very dense shrublike plant and is best used as a specimen.

The thick, bright-green leaves turn a beautiful bronze in fall, particularly if grown in full sun. While full sun produces the best spring and fall color, the star magnolia, too, will tolerate some shade and moist soil.

The Amur maple (Acer ginnala) is a dense shrub or small tree, extremely hardy, that has breathtaking fall color. The scarlet and orange leaves are as brilliant as any of the maples, and its rather inconspicuous spring flowers are very fragrant.

It makes an outstanding specimen plant and because of its very dense habit, can be used for screen or hedge plantings. It does best in full sun and will tolerate very dry conditions, requiring little if any extra care.

The Fringetree (Chionanthus) is an early-summer bloomer, usually in early June, and produces masses of fleecy white flowers. It grows best as a small tree and can be used as a specimen in full sun.

The bright yellow fall foliage adds a cheerful note to any landscape and the fruit, which remains well into winter, provides a welcome meal for hungry birds.

These plants are good companions for the old favorites like the crabs, redbuds, and dogwoods. They will do well in the East and Midwest, up to and including the Chicago area.

Unfortunately for our Southern friends, they are not well suited, with the possible exception of the star magnolia.

Most members of the American Association of Nurserymen can supply them with recommendations for specific locations.

Plant Some Summer Color

Don't look now, but spring is here, and with it comes seasonal enjoyment of flowering shrubs and trees as well as a renewal of gardening activities.

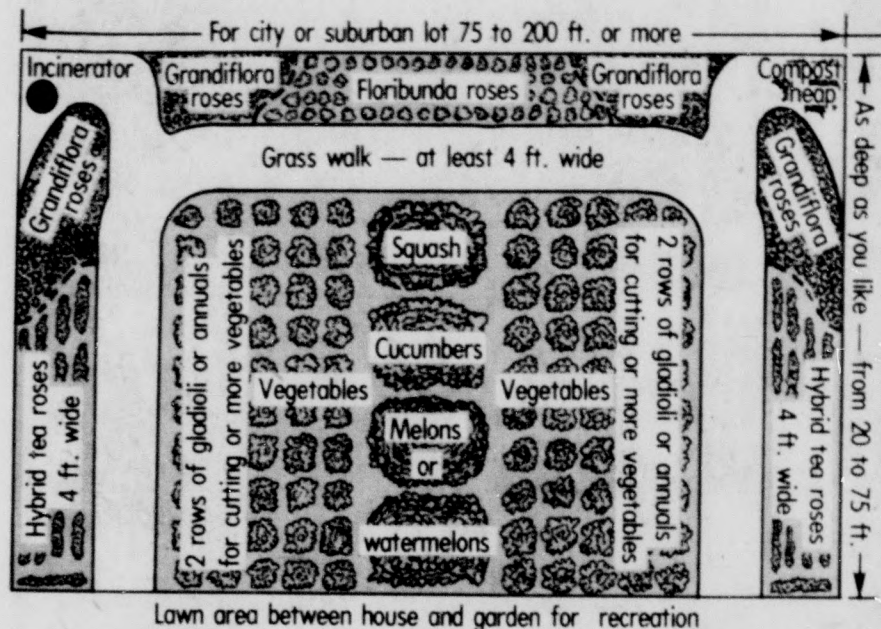

One of these activities is to plant annuals which will provide a spring-like illusion in the summer garden. Now, when the garden is filled with color, may hardly seem the time to be planting annual flowers, but if you would enjoy a carnival of color in the summer garden, this is the time to plan and plant.

Nurseries have a host of summer-flowering annuals for planting right now, including Petunias which are favorites in California. The large clan has members who feature single flowers--some small and others mammoth or double blooms. Certain blooms resemble carnations, are ruffled or flimbriated. Petunias lend themselves to uses in the landscape: in border plantings, as edgings, display beds unto themselves--or for combining with other annuals. Some are excellent for growing in pots, or for featuring in hanging baskets, advises the California Association of Nurserymen. The color choices are unbelievable--and sure to please.

Marigolds also represent a big, versatile family. Dwarfs are outstanding for edgings and borders; there are low and intermediate growers to fill summer flower beds; taller varieties serve as beautiful and eye-catching backdrops.

The flower colors of Marigolds include the familiar creams, yellows and oranges, as well as vivid shades of golds, bronzes and mahogany. There are miniature-like flowers as well as huge blooms. Happy Face, a 1973 All-American Selection, that grows to two feet in height, is a deep golden yellow Marigold--with fully double flowers up to four inches across.

Visit your nearby nursery this week and see what's available for planting now--to fill your summer with color. Ageratums, Asters, Lobelia, Periwinkle, shade-loving Coleus and Fibrous Begonias are just a few to consider. Zinnias come along later in most parts of the state, which points-up the fact that you should check periodically with your nurseryman and set-out flowering plants just as soon as they become available. This allows you to enjoy a maximum of floral beauty from easy-to-grow annuals.

Vegetables -- and roses

Why choose between roses and vegetables when you can grow them together in a backyard garden of almost any size. Here's an "idea plan" -- but you can adapt it to your own housing lot. Rose beds should be four feet wide; while vegetables should be planted in rows at least two feet apart.

Daylilies: Delightful --And Very Durable

Looking for a flower that grows in almost any soil, tolerates moderate drought and provides plenty of garden color? Take a look at the Daylily. It's a rugged individual that offers an ever-increasing refinement of flower form and color -- and it is easy to grow.

Certain forms of Daylilies are to be found growing along roadsides in parts of the country. In the Golden State, the hybrid forms are delightful additions to California-style landscape. Lily-shaped flowers rise above soft green strap-like foliage, which nominates Daylilies for both use in border situations, and in larger plantings in combination with other plants. A clump or two of Daylilies makes a striking accent in the landscape.

Color-wise, it used to be you'd find Daylilies in a lemon-yellow or red. That's how narrow the color range used to be. Today, thanks to enthusiastic hybridizers (there's an estimated 5,000 different Daylilies in America), the color choices surpass that to be found in most flowering specimens. Besides shades of yellow and reds, there are mahoganies, pinks and lavenders available. Plus combinations of these colors, which broadens the choice even more.

It is possible by selecting different Daylilies to have them blooming in your garden from early spring to late fall. Nurseries will have plants available in containers, and shopping may turn-up packaged divisions of Daylilies. Whatever form which you obtain, they are easily transplanted into the garden. Plant them in a sunny location, or in semi-shaded spots. Incorporating a nurseryman's planter mix with the soil as you set-out the plants will give the Daylilies a good start. It won't be long until the first color shows.

The flowers of most varieties unfold their beauty in one day -- hence the name of Daylily. However, this isn't that noticeable, as they bloom in a long succession of color. There are blooms opening day after day, several to a stem, and many stems per plant. As the plants age, they increase in size -- and the number of blooms.

A Little (!) Effort Keeps A Lawn Happy

Undoubtedly, some federal agency could come up with a computerized estimate on how many acres of land are dedicated to use as a lawn in home gardens throughout America. The figure would be astronomical. And, even though artificial turfs are showing-up here and there, there is nothing like a beautiful lawn -- and most home gardeners wouldn't even consider a substitute.

With March 20-26 designated as National Lawn and Garden Week, what better time to consider some of the ways to keep a lawn happy -- and at the same time, look at what can be done with the least effort.

The California Association of Nurserymen suggests that a little effort frequently applied will go a long way. Certainly, it's better than the infrequent big effort which usually comes too late. One exception to this is your watering schedule. It's better to train a lawn to take a deep watering less frequently -- to encourage deep root growth -- rather than, say, daily shallow sprinklings.

Though it will vary by area, a good rule of thumb is to water deeply once a week in cool dry weather, twice a week during warm dry weather. The length of time to water will depend on the soil condition, but strive to achieve actual water penetration of six-to-eight inches. Water in the morning. Waterings in late afternoon or evening encourage fungus diseases.

Your lawn feeding program should start immediately, if not sooner. Regular feeding is important for healthy, attractive lawns. Your nurseryman can recommend the proper lawn food for the type turf you have. Where weeds are a problem, ask about the weed control products available today. Repeat applications will be necessary, especially in lawns where weeds have been a traditional problem.

Mowing is very important to the health of a lawn, as well as appearance. Mow weekly during the growth season and less often when growing slowly.

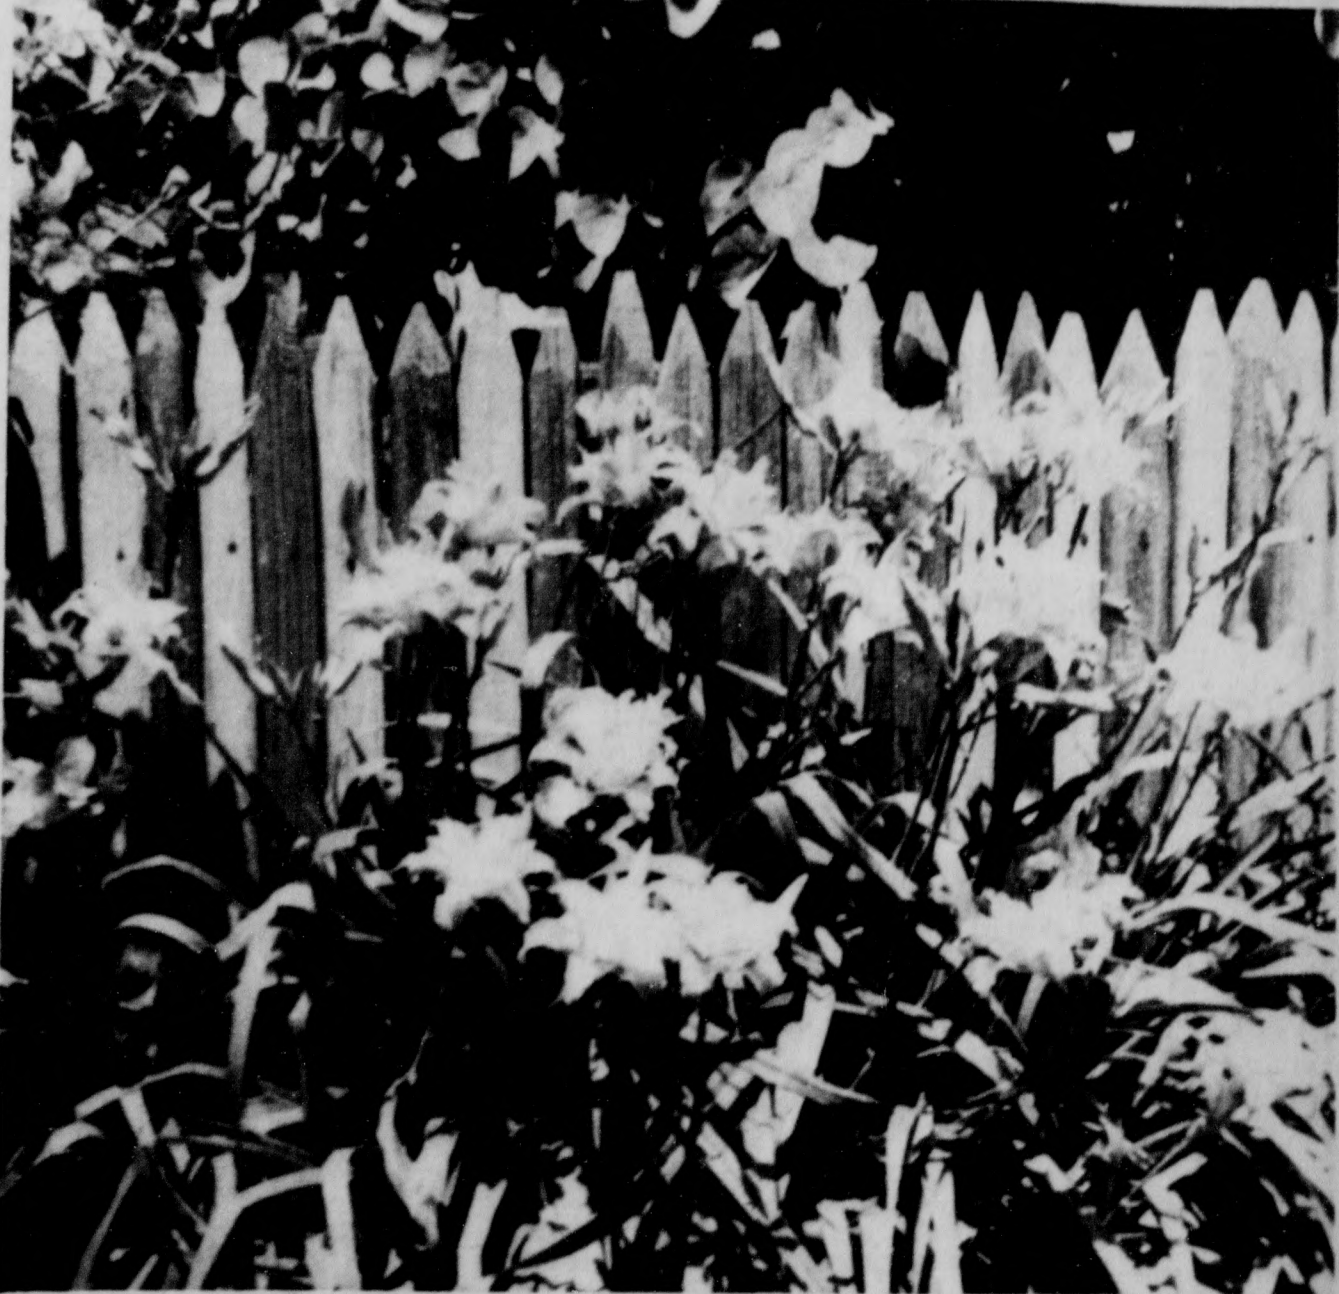

If you lowered your mower to cut at 1-inch during winter, make sure it's 1 1/2 to 2 inches as weather warms up; and at least two inches in hot climates. Cutting a lawn too short in hot weather exposes the crowns of the individual grass plants. This ruins its appearance -- and future.

'SHADE QUEEN' -- The Cineraria is often called the "Queen of the Shade Garden," as it offers surefire color in shaded areas, where other flowers fail to flourish. In mild winter climates, Cinerarias are often the standard recommendation for planting on the north side. The velvety daisy-like flowers range in color from pink, red, and lavender to deep purple and blue -- with white and two-color combinations, too

Gardener's Checklist

1. Plant Fuchsias now for summer color. Try some of the hanging basket varieties for planting in overhead containers.
2. Late March is one of the most prolific bloom periods for Azaleas. Shopping for them now enables you to select the exact shade of color you desire for your garden.
3. Feed Camellias that have finished blooming and are showing new growth. A light feeding of acid-type plant food will pay off in healthy, vigorous plants.
4. A window box or several pots of Herbs can make a wonderful contribution to the culinary arts in your household.
5. A huge supply of bedding plants is available at your local nursery. These annual flowers will provide you with an abundance of color in the summer garden.

S. Calif. Aerospace Industry: Upward Trend Seen

Southern California's vast aerospace industry — which only a few years ago accounted for more than half a million Southland jobs—may be recovering from its four-year slump, Security Pacific National Bank reported today.

Troubles for Southern California's aerospace industry began just after reaching its peak in 1967. Between 1968 and 1972, this major manufacturing industry suffered an assorted number of setbacks including reductions in government spending, the effects of a widespread recession and an almost total lack of diversification on which to fall back during such hard times.

But, an exclusive industry study compiled by Security Pacific Bank's Economic Research Division for a current issue of its Southern California Monthly Summary indicates that these pressures have been relieved somewhat in recent months.

"Government appropriations for new aerospace research and development programs, and a general improvement in the economy have helped to stabilize this industry," states Senior Vice President A. Randall Thomas Jr., administrator of the bank's Corporate Banking Department which serves the airline, aircraft and aerospace industries.

"Since the summer of 1971," Thomas explains,

"employment in Southern California's aerospace industry has registered a gradual but steady increase, and currently lists 365,000 workers on its payrolls—a moderate improvement over its record low of 160,000 workers in July of 1971, but nevertheless small when compared with approximately 500,800 aerospace employees during the industry's heyday, in December of 1967."

Thomas attributes this gradual recovery after such a severe setback in payrolls to several factors. "This turnaround stems from Southern California's own economic improvement, plus new contract awards for research, development and production by the Department of Defense, NASA, commercial air carriers and foreign nations purchasing our high technology systems."

Security Pacific Bank's spokesman also believes that a portion of this healthier trend for Southern California's aerospace industry has resulted from diversification by many large and small firms opening new markets for their technical expertise.

"In recent years," Thomas explains, "aerospace firms and defense related industries have focused their energies on such diversified fields as discovering new means for pollution control, urban planning, developing sophisticated communications systems and non-aerospace machinery, although the primary emphasis is still on aerospace."

In recent months, several major government and private projects have been initiated which have further stimulated Southern California's aerospace industry and provided increased job opportunities. "Among the potentially most important of these have been prime contracts awarded to Rockwell International Corporation for research, development, test and evaluation for the Air Force's B-1 bomber program, and another contract awarded to Rockwell for NASA's Space Shuttle Program," Thomas declares.

Rockwell has received budget authorizations for the B-1 bomber program totaling $445 million for fiscal 1973, with requests for $475 million in fiscal 1974. Approximately $200 million has been allocated in this fiscal year for the Space Shuttle, with a 1974 request for $475 million.

As Thomas points out, "These two projects rank among the largest in Southern California in terms of present budget allocations and, most importantly, for future potential. The critical factor, however, is that in order to provide continued stimulus to our aerospace industry, the bomber—at present a prototype—eventually must go into production and that further Federal support must be provided to the Space Shuttle program."

Other vital Southland projects include Lockheed's involvement in the production of several anti-submarine aircraft, and its newly-developed L-1011 wide-bodied commercial jet transport.

Turning to the future outlook, Security Pacific Bank's special aerospace study indicates that stabilization in government appropriation, the accelerating economy and increased diversification are providing an improved outlook for Southern California's aerospace firms.

ORDINANCE NO. 364
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF MONTCLAIR ADOPTING BY REFERENCE VOLUMES I, II, III, AND IV OF THAT CERTAIN BUILDING CODE IN BOOK FORM ENTITLED "UNIFORM BUILDING CODE, 1970 EDITION" AND THE "UNIFORM BUILDING CODE STANDARDS, 1970 EDITION" AND MAKING CERTAIN AMENDMENTS THERETO

The City Council of the City of Montclair does hereby ordain as follows:

Section I. Purpose. The purposes of this ordinance are to provide standards to safeguard life, health, property and the public welfare by regulating and controlling the design, construction, quality of material, use and occupancy, location and maintenance of all buildings and structures within the corporate limits of the City of Montclair.

Section II. Amendment of Municipal Code. Chapter I of Title 8 of the Montclair Municipal Code is hereby amended as follows:

Section 8-1.01. Adoption. Those certain documents in book form entitled "Uniform Building Code, 1970 Edition, Volume I," including the appendix thereof, the "Uniform Building Code, 1970 Edition, Volume II," including the appendix and standards thereof, the "Uniform Building Code, 1970 Edition, Volume III," the "Uniform Building Code, 1970 Edition, Volume IV," and the "Uniform Building Code Standards for Volume I, 1970 Edition," as prepared by the International Conference of Building Officials, 5260 South Workman Mill Road, Whittier, California are hereby referred to and by such reference incorporated herein and adopted as the Building Code of the City of Montclair except as certain portions are hereinafter specifically amended. Three copies of said Uniform Building Code, certified by the Clerk of said City of Montclair, shall be filed and will be kept on file for use and examination by the public in the City Clerk's office in said City of Montclair, 5111 Benito Street, Montclair, California.

Section 8-1.02. Building Code Amendments. The following portions and sections of the said Building Code are hereby amended as follows:

(a) Section 103 of said Building Code is hereby amended by adding the following:

"In order to properly maintain and safeguard healthful living conditions and comply with all provisions of the Uniform Building Code, it is hereby declared unlawful to use any structure, boxcars, house-cars, motor bus bodies, house trailers, mobile homes or similar means of conveyance, or structures of similar nature or construction, for places of habitation, residence, or place of business in this City, provided however, that nothing contained herein shall prohibit the use of any house trailer or mobile home for places of abode or habitation in an approved mobile home park, providing such structures comply with all other conditions and requirements of this Code."

(b) Section 301 (d) is hereby amended by adding the following to Paragraph I:

"plans shall include off-street parking spaces sufficient to meet the requirements of the zoning regulations of the City of Montclair."

(c) Section 303 (a) is hereby amended by adding the following to the first paragraph:

"In addition to those fees set forth in said table, the Building Official, shall charge a fee of $2.00 for issuing the permit."

(d) Section 303 (d) is hereby amended by adding the following:

"except that in cases of tract development of houses using stock plans, the fee for the first house shall be as herein provided and each additional house at one-half the normal plan check fee."

(e) Section 304 is hereby amended by adding the following:

"(f) It is the intention of the City of Montclair that all construction carried on under the Montclair Building Department be of good standard quality. The Building Official shall be empowered to enforce the installation of work which is straight, level, plumb, square, etc., as the situation requires. All work shall be installed to serve its purpose in the intended manner. Doors, windows, mechanical equipment, etc., shall be well fit and of a durable nature. Paint in all cases shall not be below normal standards for the use applied. The proper grading of walks, drives and yards shall be required when being installed along with work requiring a building permit. A minimum thickness of 3 5/8" for flat concrete work and 2" for asphalt paving shall be required. All exterior flat concrete work shall include such brakes for expansion as shall be deemed necessary by the Building Official. Protests to the decisions of the Building Official may be made as provided in Section 204 of the Uniform Building Code."

(f) Section 306 is hereby amended by adding the following:

"(f) The following are the minimum requirements which shall be completed and approved before any occupancy is permitted or utilities connected:

1. Foundation, framing, roof covering, interior and exterior wall covering.
2. Kitchen and bathroom separated by partitions, ceilings and doors.
3. Water closet, kitchen

sink and sewage disposalsystem installed when required.

4. In addition to any Planning Commission site requirements, where not already provided, minimum off-site improvements consisting of sidewalks, curbs, driveway approaches, shall have been installed and completed in accordance with City specifications."

(g) Subsection (g) is hereby added to Section 306 to read as follows:

"Irrespective of the receipt of a formal certificate of occupancy, the possession of all necessary public utility connections may be considered prima facie evidence of approval for occupancy by the Building Official until such time as notice is received, and one or more utility connections are ordered discontinued as prescribed by written notice to the utility company by the Building Official."

(h) The first paragraph of Section 3203 (c) 7 shall be amended to read as follows:

"Shingles shall be applied to roofs with solid sheathing."

(i) The first paragraph of Section 3203 (c) 8 shall be amended to read as follows:

"Shakes shall be applied to roofs with solid sheathing."

Section 8-1.03. Violations. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Code shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and each such person, firm or corporation shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense for each and every day or portion thereof during which any violation of any of the provisions of this Code is committed, continued or permitted, and upon the conviction of any such violations, such person, firm or corporation shall be punished by a fine of not more than Five Hundred ($500) Dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six (6) months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 8-1.04. Nothing contained in this ordinance shall be construed or deemed to be a waiver of the provisions of Chapter I of Title 3 of the Montclair Municipal Code requiring contractors, sub-contractors, or specialty contractors to obtain licenses from said City of Montclair under the circumstances and conditions therein prescribed.

Section 8-1.05. Repeal of Conflicting Ordinances. Section 6003 of the Uniform Building Code, 1970 Edition, Volume I, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 6003. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed."

Section III. If any section, sub-section, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such holding or holdings shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, sub-section, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, sub-sections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared invalid.

Section IV. The City Clerk of the City of Montclair shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be published in a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in the City, at least once within fifteen (15) days after the date of its adoption.

THE ARTS

Oriental Objects On Display

Unique ceramic objects, many of which have never been outside of Japan, will be on exhibition at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art beginning March 27. It was announced by Museum Director Kenneth Donahue. The exhibition, titled "Ceramic Art of Japan: One Hundred Masterpieces from Japanese Collections," will be in the Frances and Armand Hammer Wing of the Museum through May 13.

The exhibition was three years in preparation and was arranged through the close cooperation of the Bunka-cho (Japanese Government Agency for Cultural Affairs), Japanese museum officials, private collectors and Seattle Art Museum, where the objects were first exhibited in America.

Outstanding examples of works dating as far back as 4500 B.C. will be shown. Each major ceramic period through the 19th century is represented in the exhibition.

Potted tea bowls of great elegance and subdued refinement will be shown along with large jars having strong, bold shapes and asymmetrical patterns. Brilliantly colored porcelains of the Edo Period (17th to 19th centuries) and the distinctive ceramic ware created by the artist-potters Ninsei, Kenzan, Mokubei and Dohachi can also be seen, according to George Kuwayama, Senior Curator of Far Eastern Art.

The works selected for the exhibition are a reflection of the historical and esthetic development of a culture in which ceramic ware flourished as a major art tradition in Japan. Many of the objects are registered with the Tokyo National Museum as "Important Cultural Properties," a designation which would normally restrict any travel beyond the shores of Japan. Some of the works to be seen here have never been open to public view even in Japan.

"It is quite likely that these rare and superb works will never again be seen in the Western world," said Kuwayama. "We are grateful that our Museum has an opportunity to present these fragile, beautiful objects to the public."

The enormous expense involved in having such a price-less collection for exhibition was partially underwritten by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, the JDR 3rd Fund, the Asia Foundation of Tokyo and San Francisco, the Washington State Arts Commission and special funds allocated by the Japanese Government.

Admission to the exhibition is free to Museum members, $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and senior citizens. Free guided tours are offered daily except Monday at 1 p.m. The admission price includes the "African Textiles and Decorative Arts" exhibition, on view in adjacent galleries in the Hammer Wing.

Hours for the special exhibition are Tuesday to Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., and weekends 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Museum is located at 5905 Wilshire Blvd., just east of Fairfax Ave.

Sci-Writer Arthur C. Clarke Featured Speaker

Arthur C. Clarke will be the last Zarem Lecturer in the present series at Harvey Mudd College on Thursday evening, March 29, at 8 o'clock in Galileo Hall. Clarke, though of by many as being the outstanding science fiction writer of his time, is also a science writer, a graduate of King's College, London, where he took first class honors in physics and mathematics. He is a past chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, and a member of the Academy of Astronautics, the Royal Astronomical Society, and many other scientific organizations.

Born in England in 1917, Clarke is a man of diversified achievements. An authority on space travel, he is the winner of the Franklin Institute's Gold Medal (1963) for having originated the communications satellite in a technical paper published in 1945. In 1962, he was awarded the $2,800 UNESCO Kalunga Prize for science writing. In 1965, he won two Aviation/Space Writers Assn. awards for his Life article on the history and future of communications satellites. In 1969 he shared an Oscar nomination with Stanley Kubrick for the screenplay "2001: A Space Odyssey."

Clarke is the author of 45 books, both non-fiction and fiction, 10 million copies of which have been printed in some 30 languages. In addition to "2001: A Space Odyssey," which was inspired by one of his short stories, "The Sentinel," Clarke wrote, with the editors of Life, "Man and Space" (1964).

His non-fiction works began to be published in the early 1950s and revised editions have appeared with regularity. The titles of these books include "Interplanetary Flight."

At Harvey Mudd, Clarke has chosen "Life in the Year 2001" as the title of his talk. The public is welcome to attend without charge.

'The Future' Theme Of Conference

"Projecting the Future" will be the theme of the 1973 USC Film Conference scheduled April 5-8 on the University of Southern California campus.

Announcement of the theme was made by film historian and critic Arthur Knight, professor of cinema at USC and director of the conference. A conference steering committee is composed of outstanding educators and professional filmmakers including: writer-producer Bill Froeg, Warner Brothers executive Rudi Fehr, USC cinema chairman Dr. Bernard R. Kantor, Loyola educator Father Michael Callahan, Variety critic Art Murphy, producer Bob Radnitz, composer David Rakksin.

For additional information and reservations write to the USC Division of Cinema, Steve Greenberg, coordinator, University of Southern California University Park, Los Angeles, CA. 90007 or call (213) 746-2215.

ASSUME VA LOAN—3 BDRMS—$33,

Woman Aids New Homeowners Here

An attractive brunette mother of two has carved a new career niche in the growing community development business.

Carole Henderson, as Rancho California's first custom home consultant, is helping new land owners get their dream homes off the ground by putting together the custom package: architecture, construction bidding, financing and follow-through.

Before Carole first visited Kaiser Aetna's 97,500-acre development in February, 1972, she had worked in various capacities for developers of planned communities.

"I was responsible for many areas, from supervising delinquent accounts to managing the office. But, I'm the type who really gets involved. Soon I was filling in arranging all sorts of things from VIP tours to fox hunts."

But one role she created out of necessity gave her the most satisfaction. That was helping land owners who wanted a custom home find the right financing, architect and building contractor.

When Carole visited Rancho California in Riverside County, she discovered more land parcels sitting undeveloped because the owners didn't have the time or the know-how to put the "package" together.

Rancho California management believed Carole's observations made sense and agreed to offer her consulting services on a complimentary basis to existing and new landowners.

Since then, Carole has worked with owners to plan and build some 30 homes. Four of them are just being completed.

"This is a fantastic job for anyone who is fascinated with people and the whole home building picture," Carole says.

Landowners make an appointment to meet Carole in her antique-filled office in the Rancho California Plaza. If the owners don't already have an architectural preference, Carole advises them to look through magazines and clip photos of interiors and exteriors that appeal to them. She then finds out how much they can afford to spend and what kind of family life they prefer.

"If the people like to entertain or if the family likes to do things together, I start thinking in terms of an open floor plan. If the people are geared to individual projects, or need a lot of personal privacy, I begin thinking in more traditional floor plan."

By the second or third meeting, Carole suggests an architect that has an affinity to her client's preferences.

"There's no point in trying to work something out between a very conservative client and a flamboyant architect. They will just frustrate each other."

Carole invites local reliable contractors to bid on the final plans and arranges for the most favorable financing.

"As a third party, I can be more demanding without getting emotionally involved, and when it comes to follow-through and adjustments, the contractors know that I am a source of referral and not just a one-time customer. They don't ignore me, or put my requests for changes at the bottom of the list."

Eventually as Carole's service gains a greater following, Rancho California expects that her role will be supported by the clients themselves.

"It is very exciting to find the right package for each client and to help them avoid pitfalls. And, you build great friendships that continue long after the house warming."

For a mother who is a head of household, the hours are great and you plan your own time, Carole says. "When I do work on weekends, which is frequent, my two boys ride along and bring their fishing poles."
